Norm Delson of Delson Computer developed an elaborate website we used for members of our private financial group. Norm built a website from scratch and worked on a various things: multimedia and training presentations, flash animation, a security wall to keep non-members out, etc. He also produced some nice financial training videos (and added those into the website) for us. Later, he added a user forum and a secured area for us to maintain client information. Delson Computer's bill for this was just short of six thousand dollars less than the best quote we received in Denver.

Norm spent allot of time and effort to make certain everything was perfect. He regularly went above and beyond making suggestions I would never have thought of for things like security and use.

I was so impressed I flew Norm out to Denver to setup our medical office. As soon as he arrived he got to work on our network, getting things setup and secured, he got all our computers and medical software (Medisoft running on Macs) setup and everything running perfectly and he also trained our staff.

I definitely recommend Delson Computer.

Sincerely,
Dr. Jennifer Hartley
